HAS HICCOUGHED FOR TWENTY-FIVE DAYS.

Miss Nellie Trautman's Strange Case Is Puzzling the Doctors of Elizabeth.

Though Weakened by the Malady, Her Health Seems to Be Otherwise Unimpaired.

HER MOTHER FEARS SHE WILL DIE.

There is a Slight improvement in the Young Girl's Condition, but the Attacks of Hiccoughing Continue at Intervals.

Miss Nellie Trautman's biccoughs are puzzling the doctors of Elizabeth, N. J. She has had them over three weeks, and, except for being very weak, is apparently just as well as she was on April 25, when she was selzed with them, after breakfast, at her home, No. 154 Division street.

Nothing was thought of them for several days, but when they continued persistently Dr. W. A. M. Mack, the family physician was consulted, and one remedy after an other was tried. There was no beneficial result. Dr. Maeylag was then called in con sultation, and new medicines were pre scribed, but the girl continued to hiccough and lose strength until she was obliged to take to her bed.

Yesterday was the first day the doctors had noticed any improvement, but this was so slight that her mother, Mrs. Balthauser Trautman, could not detect it. She was overwhelmed with anxiety last night about her daughter Nellle and another daughter Mrs. Barbara Simons, who had just been taken to a hospital. Mrs. Trautman says the physician has forbidden any one seeing Nellie. She has little hope of her daugh ter's recovery.

Dr. Mack takes a more cheerful view of the case, and while he considers it a serious one, he does not despair of its final

"Miss Trautman's biccoughs are due entirely to nervousness," said Dr. Mack last "She is not in any immediate dan ger and there is no reason for alarm. The girl is very weak, but I have every hope of her ultimate recovery. She is decidedly better to-day." This improvement is thought to be due to

Mrs. Abbey, who is living at the Abbey home, No. 160 West Fifty-ninth street, was sent for and visited her stricken husband at his apartments in the Gilsey House. Mr. Abbey's daughter, Kittle, accompanied her. It was hoped that the visit would result in a reconcillation between the husband and wife. A close friend of Mr. Abbey said yesterday that a reconcillation between the couple was out of the duestion, that neither couple was out of the duestion, that neither ferent scenes in the pantonime, were hand.
